

How to travel on a budget?

All of people need to celebrate, especially after working for long days and weeks with no rest. Celebrations don't have to be expensive to be memorable. Travelling is a way of celebration. When you think of travelling, you think of the budget. Traveling costs money, but there are ways to make it easier on the wallet. In this article, we will discuss the most important questions that come to your head when you think of travelling; when, where and how to travel on a budget.

Timing is everything

If you have the luxury of choosing the time of your trip, it will help you a lot. You'll find the best deals, when you travel in the middle of the week. Travelers who book at the right time can save hundreds of pounds on a ticket or room, while people who push the button at the wrong time can see their rates double. Be aware of the seasonality of travel. What is considered to be off-peak in one country might not be in another. There are a lot of websites that help you compare between tickets and pick what suits you best.

Determine what you can afford

Assess how much money you have available for the vacation. Keep in mind your ongoing expenses that you'll need to take care of like rent, utilities, and food costs.

Use a spreadsheet to calculate your budget

Use a spreadsheet to write every single pound you will spend during the trip in a paper. Your expenses include visa fees, flight, transfers, accommodation, shopping, food and your extra needs. You can find a travel budget calculator online or write your own spreadsheet. Don't forget to consider gifts and souvenirs. Make a list of the people you intend to purchase gifts for.

Don't feel obligated to fly out of the nearest airport

You might save money by flying through less-convenient airports. For example, if you live in Cairo, you can try to check in from another airport in Egypt. You can find cheaper ticket in another airport. Also, don't simply search for flights on Google. You can find a lot of websites that compare tickets to take the cheapest ticket for your flight.

Pay in advance

Try to book the accommodation and transportation before you travel using your credit card. Booking online in advance will almost always get you a better deal than if you just show up at the counter. And it's easier and quicker. Also, Sign up for a travel rewards credit card. You will take bonus on miles you travel and also for money you pay. You're smart enough to know money doesn't grow on trees, but earning credit card points and miles may have you thinking otherwise. You can ask Noqood for more information about currency exchange rates or credit cards.

Traveling can be expensive. But travelers who are always on the lookout for a good deal can save money by following even just a few of these simple tips. According to happiness theory, when money is spent on travel, happiness grows over time. So, buy happiness with your money

